

Pump Water Supply High, Expert Avers

WASHINGTON. Jan. 13.—An engineer said today the Snake river would be depleted only slightly by irrigation pumping for "perhaps as many as 10 years."

This testimony was given by Raymond A. Hill, Los Angeles, at a power commission hearing on Idaho Power company's applications to build three dams where the federal dam project also has been suspended.

His estimate is lower than that of Idaho Power engineers. They claim water wouldn't be sufficient to fill the proposed federal reservoir after irrigators are supplied.

Explains Theory

Using a crayon and drawing board, Hill explained his theory that diversion of water from the Snake for irrigation will seriously reduce the flow of underground water into the Snake.

Hill said irrigation pumping in southern Idaho may continue to expand at its present rate for a limited period, probably five years, before it will "flatten out" after the most reliable land has been put under water.

Hill said records prove the flow of the Snake had increased steadily at the King Hill gauging station since 1930. It is every 10th attorney general asked whether there were actual gains from precipitation, springs and the return flow of water for upstream irrigation.

150,000 Acres Irrigated

Hill said 150,000 acres of land had been put under irrigation in the area between the Miller and King Hill gauging stations, but water consumption was offset by gains at King Hill which "held fairly constant" for the dry years between 1930 and 1937 and progressively increased since then.

Diversion of water at Palouse dam, now under construction, will add to the gain at King Hill as the water percolates to the underground channels leading to the river, Hill said.

Benson said the President's request for flexible or sliding price supports represented the return to a "sound" farm policy in place of the "unsound" price supports and the surpluses they bring.

It appeared after Tuesday's convention sessions that a program to enable private lending agencies to finance stockpiling during the current price freeze had been adopted.

Jay Taylor, vice president of the association, Amarillo, Tex., is backer of the plan. He discussed it with some cattlemen and later presented it to the audience.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (UPI)—Democrats banded Tuesday behind an expanded security program, greater benefits and increased protection for the people.

Democrats in a statement said they "are a step forward" goal they will meet the needs of the people.

Democrats apparently beat Eisenhower to the punch.

The President is expected to act on a somewhat similar bill.

MORE HOSPITAL PROGRESS

It is gratifying news that the pathology laboratory of Magic Valley Memorial hospital is to be operated as a regular department of the institution in the future and that a survey is being made as a basis of getting charges in the pathology and radiology departments in line with similar fees elsewhere.

The news is gratifying in two general respects. In the first place it comes as further evidence of steps being taken by the board to make Magic Valley Memorial hospital outstanding in every respect, the overall objective being to have the institution fully accredited.

In addition to that, the board's action serves as an acknowledgement of the public criticism of these two particular departments, for which criticism there has been some basis.

It is probably no one individual's fault that the pathology department has been operated privately over a period of years. When the department was first set up, the hospital itself was not in position to buy the necessary laboratory equipment. Arrangements for private operation of the laboratory were necessary as a result and under such an arrangement hospital supervision of the department was limited.

Now it's to the credit of the present board that plans are being worked out for the hospital to buy the laboratory equipment and assume jurisdiction over the department. In fairness to the pathologist, Dr. J. Woodson Creed, it should be pointed out that he is cooperating with the hospital in bringing this change about.

Hereafter, with the hospital administration working with the pathologist in the operation of the department, more consideration, no doubt, will be given to such things as charges, blood bank operations, and the like.

While the hospital itself has exercised greater control over the radiology department, this branch of the operation has been subjected to considerable public criticism, principally over the department's schedule of charges. It is encouraging to note in this connection that a committee is busy making a comparison of the rates for X-ray work with those of other hospitals in Idaho and elsewhere.

Should this survey disclose that rates being charged by this department are appreciably above the average, there is reason to believe modifications will be in order. Dr. Charles McWilliams, radiologist, has indicated every willingness to cooperate.

All of these developments indicate progress in the right direction for which the board and the administrator are to be commended.

Last August, Dr. Lucius W. Johnson of San Diego, a recognized authority in his field, completed a medical audit of the hospital; after such action had been recommended by both the medical staff and the board.

As a result of this audit, better relationships between the doctors and the hospital administration developed and numerous ways were pointed out for further improvement in the operation, all with the eventual objective of getting the hospital fully accredited, which it is hoped may come about next summer.

The construction of Magic Valley Memorial hospital was a great achievement in itself and it stands out in remarkable contrast to the inadequate facilities with which this community was handicapped for so many years.

Now it remains for all of us—the people, the doctors and the hospital management—to make the most of this outstanding institution. And to the board's credit it can be said that many improvements have followed since the new hospital was built.

Let's hope that it goes ahead courageously with the remaining changes which need to be made, even though some of these, I think, may be unpleasant.

* NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

Putting your own words into other people's mouths is a famous old Washington trick—wherever anyone can get away with it. John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers Journal tried it in its first issue of the New Year by suggesting a few resolutions "for some people you may know."

"Winter Weather," CIO president resolved—I won't sign any more sliding scale contracts even when someone tells me that what's good for General Motors is good for America.

"George Meany, AFL president, resolved—I will stop acting like a petty politician and remember that I am speaking for more than 8,000,000 Americans."

"Admiral Stevenson, a Democrat, resolved—I will try to keep my sense of humor."

"Former Secretary of Labor Durkin, resolved—I will never again have anything to do with a Republican."

AT LONG LAST!

Not long back somebody turned up the fact that Massachusetts never had wiped out a legislative declaration of war to prevent the admission of Texas to the union. Blame it on the issue.

But now Governor Herter of Massachusetts had at last welcomed Texas into the fold with a formal letter to Texas Governor Shivers. Congratulations!

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—Washington's neglect of the finer but more important aspects of diplomacy, especially its personal and cultural points, was dramatized recently at its worst in an area where we are rapidly losing influence.

It is a field where the Russians excel us by intensive cultivation, and in which they constantly depict us as "uncouth and money-mad imperialists." While the Chinese and Japanese are ruled by Washington, they are succeeding in a land where communism's influence grows stronger every day from Moscow.

President Eisenhower recently sent his ambassador to Moscow, to assure Latin-American's of our return. Now, in view of repercussions in the Latin section of "Encyclopaedia Britannica's" diplomatic row, it is doubtful if even President Eisenhower can do much to curb the damage.

And that stuff which is so pitifully depicted as "the damage" is not one-half of the western hemisphere.

BRAZIL'S EXHIBITION The unhappy occasion was the staging of the largest and most important international exhibition of modern art ever held in the western world, Arte Popular, at São Paulo, Brazil, to mark the 100th birthday of the country.

Latin-Americans regarded the festival, which opened in December, as an attempt to show their cultural and economic advances, to prove that they were not backward peoples, to win international recognition, to call attention to their progress, to demonstrate that they were better neighbors than we are, thereby improving trade, economic and political relations in an awakening area. South America was a valuable ally in World War II.

U.S. NOT REPRESENTED OFFICIALLY—Thirty-eight countries officially sponsored elaborate exhibits of art, and their governments helped to finance the expenditure. European commissioners even did physical labor in hanging paintings and moving sculptures in order to assist the Latin-Americans.

Only one nation—the United States—was not officially represented, despite a specific invitation. Our excellent artistic exhibition was sponsored by the museum of modern art, and financed with that institution's Rockefeller funds. We were orphans at the international party.

OTHER SNUBS—There were even more glaring snubs to the sensitive Latinas. Although a few state departments attached showed up individually, the Chicago banker and former treasurer of the Republican national committee did not even send an authorized delegate to stand in the official reception.

Finally, although rival ambassadors contributed funds to help finance the 400th anniversary, the U. S. refused to do so. The richest nation gave not a nickel.

AMERICAN ART REJECTED—COMMENT—Here is the latest in the series of Allis Loucheim's articulate editorials in the New York Times, which thought the event so important that it assigned her to it:

"Unfortunately, the lack of official (U. S.) sponsorship surprised neither Europeans nor South Americans. They are used to seeing our own way of life as the standard of culture and especially the attitude of our congress and state department toward modern art. Without being hypersensitive, one cannot help feeling that certain foreigners, are rather delighted with our official philistinism. It reinforces the accusation of our cultural barbarism, indeed only in dollars and materials, but also emphasizes the impression that we believe we can 'buy' friendship and alliances."

Note: At Prime Minister Nehru's invitation, Moscow has sent a fine band, dancers, singers, painters, actors, poets, writers, and a number of other artists for a "cultural exchange" in India. The only American art the Asians ever see is Marilyn Monroe and Ava Gardner in near-undress.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

TAXES AND DEFENSE

Among the first congressmen and senators to open fire on the President's state of the union message were advocates of lower taxes and government economy.

Quick opposition was heard to the recommendation that the national debt limit be RAISED AND THAT Taxes be cut for the time being at present levels.

On the other hand, two recommendations is nothing but empty talk, unless the "regulators" who want tax cuts and lower debt have a formula for immediate balancing of the cash budget. In order to reduce the budget substantial reductions must be made in the defense budget. The defense budget reductions are not enough, then the government must either have other revenue or more borrowing power, or both.

Congress can't have its cake and eat it too. It can't have its cake and eat it too, and roll out the red carpet, and set it up at the same old spending stand, all in the same year.

The obvious place for the advocates of lower taxes and less debt to begin is where the President began in his message, with the problem of national defense. He has already proposed a cut in the defense budget of the total federal budget. About half of the remainder of the budget is composed of costs over which Congress has little or no immediate control. Therefore the defense budget is the one which to the greatest degree determines the level of government spending.

Now it remains for all of us—the people, the doctors and the hospital management—to make the most of this outstanding institution. And to the board's credit it can be said that many improvements have followed since the new hospital was built.

Let's hope that it goes ahead courageously with the remaining changes which need to be made, even though some of these, I think, may be unpleasant.

A CHURCH VIEWPOINT

At a meeting in which the people of a small suburb were asking questions about their public schools, one of them asked, "What do we not know?" The answers were not given, but the children come from such good homes with such responsible parents that the affiliation is different here." One of those present retorted, "One of our boys steering an eighty-mile-an-hour projectile is a dangerous object."

Mostly educators will tell us that we are as drivers, drivers. Perhaps it is time for the church to add its voice, telling us that we are more than dangerous, perhaps depraved. If good breeding has obscured that which evangelical Christianity calls total depravity, it obscures it. We get out and run on a steering wheel. We let loose, break rules, live slovenly and revolting. There are the same people who use a dangerous horse of speed to keep another car from getting around a corner ahead of us.

The church could help. This church has been telling us that we are more than dangerous, perhaps depraved. If good breeding has obscured that which evangelical Christianity calls total depravity, it obscures it. We get out and run on a steering wheel. We let loose, break rules, live slovenly and revolting. There are the same people who use a dangerous horse of speed to keep another car from getting around a corner ahead of us.

AUTHOR DEWEY VS. SPEAKER DEWEY

In the Park jogged over a year ago, John Dewey, the Park jogger, and his wife, a speaker, and were convinced that if we had not sent troops to defend Korea, all continental Asia would have gone communist. The long hard truth left an ugly trail of destruction on diplomatic relations with continental Asia. Last week, in a speech, Senator Francis J. Flanagan of Minnesota rally said, "Whatever anybody mentions the words Truman and Dewey to you, for the rest of your life remember that these words synonymous with Amherst, New Haven, Yale, Princeton, and Harvard."

"Former Secretary of Labor Durkin, resolved—I will never again have anything to do with a Republican."

POT SHOTS

NO BANANA CROP?

For the past several months, we have actually been having bumper weather. That heavy clouding that everyone wears, that is designed to keep them warm, is not designed to keep them warm, is not designed to protect them from mosquitoes.

While it appears to be true that the crop is not growing well, it is not due to the weather.

President Eisenhower recently sent his ambassador to Moscow, to assure Latin-American's of our return.

Old Strikes
Eastern U. S.
After Snows

By United Press
It cleared, winds diminished temperature all today as the out after the worst winter in five years.
U. S. weather bureau said now in the hard-hit Atlantic area was not likely to snow, although light snows forecast from the Dakotas to and Keweenaw.
New snow in the Rocky mountains and great basin dumped six inches on Las Vegas, Nev., and areas in other western areas
generally much lighter.
In New York City, where 9.5
of new snow fell, the streets were almost normal, although still near the suburbs.
Light snow forecast for the Rocky mountain west expected in the form of sleet or rain areas around northern Illinois.
Light snows already were in the extreme northern parts and plains states early yesterday.

Coldest spot in the country was at Custer, Wyo., with 22 below
although surface readings common in the western great basin.

Billings, Mont., had the warmest

Renovation of Community Hall For Knoll Nearing Completion

Renovation of the Knoll community hall, a community service project of the Knoll Grange, is progressing rapidly, reports A. E.
Harper, Grange master.

Remodeling of the former school began last spring. Labor was provided by local volunteers. They estimate about 1,500 man hours have been expended on the project. About $2, 500 of remodeling has been completed.

Grangers began by excavating a basement. This was then enlarged to 10 by 12 feet concrete basement which has been turned over to Knoll Boy Scout troop No. 62 for their exclusive use.

A permanent stage has been constructed in one room. The front door was enlarged and remodeled and a new furnace installed. New concrete steps complete with railings have been erected in front of the building.

Grangers are presently putting finishing touches to an entrance way covering the basement entrance.

In addition, a parking area was constructed. Three trucks and two tractors were used to construct the site. About 300 cubic yards of gravel were used to gravel the new parking area.

Not content with their efforts, Grange members are already buying decorative items, plans for an outdoor fireplace, tables and rest rooms for tourists. They also are planning to panel part of the interior "some time in the future."

's New Farm Plan Seeks*To Change Views on Prices

OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—The Administration, in advancing a farm program, has decided to drop support needed to stabilize farm belt food prices affording a measure of agricultural prosperity.

Food price guarantees—which had been put up and down with the supply of major crops since 1948 on the basis of market prices—will never be allowed to operate again.

His plan, price supports will be in times of shortage and encourage production and times of surplus to incentives and disincentives. Critics' complaints of low prices need financial help times of surplus and low prices, a part, rather than put the program into effect, congress passed the warbon system supporting price supports at high levels.

Major parties joined in 1948 and the house balked and the Senate delayed for that year, then decided P.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(UPI)—Per-announced plans Tuesday to attend a far east regional meeting of his

The exact date of the session has not yet been decided, but the announce-over several days.

Stassen has conducted similar regional meetings in Europe and the middle east and plans to attend a Latin American conference in Lima, Peru, on Jan. 14.

to produce much more wheat, coltion, corn and other crops than buyers would take at the high top support prices.

This extra production has moved from government hands to the total tune of five billion dollars—under high supports.

High supports, says the administration, limit markets. That is, it says, it is possible to sell many more products which at $2.00 a bushel than at $2.20 if it is quite possible, the administration argues, for an increased volume of sales at lower prices to put a larger total number of dollars into farm pockets which would smaller sales at higher prices.

The administration says farmers have not had a true test of the restrictive effect of high supports on total sales because government programs have permitted farmers

House Group Begins Work On Tax Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—The house ways and means committee has begun work on rewriting most of the nation's tax laws amid growing talk of new income tax relief for everybody.

Chairman Reed, Jr., N.Y., called the committee late closed session.

Representative Rogers, D., predicted some Democrats would press for a $100 boost in personal income tax exemptions. The present law allows a family of six a deduction of himself and each of his dependents before his remaining income is taxed.

High Benefits

If enacted, the liberalized exemption would cost about $1 billion dollars annually. Low-income groups and large families would profit most from it and several million low-bracket taxpayers wouldn't have to pay any income tax at all.

Representatives also were talking—more vaguely—of a possible new income tax cut in addition to the 10 per cent average reduction which took effect Jan. 1.

From Sean

The Eisenhower administration, struggling to balance the budget, probably would frown on such revenue losses for now though holding out hope for such action in the future.

Recommendations prepared by treasury and congressional staff experts do not deal with major tax rates, but would yield about $1200,000,000 in additional tax reductions through many lesser changes.

These would involve new or bigger deductions for medical expenses, dependents making more than $600 annually, child-care costs of working wives and widowers, depreciation, dividend income and so forth.

Turbo-Jet Car Testing Model Is Announced

DETROIT, Jan. 13 (AP)—General Motors introduced today the first turbo-jet automobile ever built and tested in the United States.

Called the "Firebird," it looks more like a racing plane than a car. It has reverse-lift wings to keep it on the ground and wing-flap brakes just like a plane to help slow it down.

Although GM engineers say they may never build one for speed, the rated horsepower of 370 at 13,000 revolutions per minute suggests speeds well over 200 miles per hour.

"Purely Experimental."

GM President Harry H. Cushing said the car is "purely experimental and is not intended for highway use. It will be shown for the first time at GM's Motorama in New York City Jan. 21-26."

Although GM engineers say they may never build one for speed, the rated horsepower of 370 at 13,000 revolutions per minute suggests speeds well over 200 miles per hour.

Conventions

The car is about the length and width of a conventional big car. It has a white plastic torpedo-shaped body, 44 inches high. Flowing back from the nose into a delta wing at the rear wheels complete with stabilizers.

It seats only one in a clear plastic bubble midway between the front and rear wheels. The engine is mounted behind the cockpit with a huge exhaust port marking up the rear of the car.

"Curious emphasized that "this is not the car of tomorrow. We built the Firebird to help us explore commercial possibilities of the gas turbine and add to our knowledge of thermodynamics."

Ike's Statements Recalled in New Defense Policy for U.S.

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' outline in New York of a bold new American defense policy was being read here today in light of several grimly realistic statements by President Eisenhower.

Dulles' speech was keyed to massive air striking power in view of aggression. And the massive American air strike now is being built along the two-pronged force of the Air Force and Strategic Air Command.

The State Department was committed to strategically sound use of the A-bomb long before he came to the White House. The General Eisenhower speech, however, was not N.A.T.O. forces in Europe appeared in February, 1951, before the acute foreign relations and armed services committee.

The Air Force had been asked to make it plainest: Bombers, an aggression by China or by the Soviet Union might bring American strategic bombers over those countries rather than over the Iron curtain boundaries where they could do little damage.

Now it is attributed to the president's statement made in closed meeting with a group of congressional leaders. It ran about like this: The Russians would be delighted if the United States would split its forces among 40 divisions in Europe instead of 20. Then when they had a quick ground thrust might gobble them up.

All of the foregoing adds up to a new approach to the problem created by the stop-and-start aggressive tactics of the Kremlin. The new approach is to prevent future crises for the free world. It happened in Greece and Korea. The first big one was the Berlin blockade.

Baldwin Brown was the soloist and Nancy Davis, the pianist. Pallbearers were President Barlow, Dan W. Davis, J. K. Bailey, Glen Pife, Dean Call and Jim Page. Call dedicated the grave at the Pifer IOOF cemetery.

TIMES-NEWS, TWIN FALLS, IDAHO

Magazine for Idaho Urged

BOISE, Jan. 13 (UPI) — Idaho ought to take a tip from a tourist-minded sister state and go into magazine business, Secretary of State Fred Masters declared Tuesday.

It could mean an extra 25 million dollars a year to Gem State businesses, Masters said.

Masters, fresh from a two-week visit with Arizona's Secretary of State Wesley Bolin, told newsmen that the Grand Canyon state has put out guidebooks in the techniques of attracting tourists.

He pointed to the magazine "Arizona Highways," a $100,000 a year publication financed by the state to spread the name of Arizona throughout the nation.

"With something like that, we have ourselves a tourism industry of 50 million dollars a year," Masters said. Idaho now receives an estimated 20 million dollars a year from tourists.

The secretary said the 1963 Idaho legislature took a short-sighted view in rejecting a request by Gov. Len Jordan for $100,000 to promote the tourist trade.

"For a dried up desert state, Arizona does pretty well," Masters said. "We have 1,700 lakes and 3,500 streams. We ought to be doing a lot better."

New Chief of BPA Says No Big Shift Due

PORLTAND, Jan. 13 (AP)—William A. Pearl, who will take over as Bonneville power administrator Friday, says there probably won't be "drastic changes" in the huge power agency's policies. He said he has no reason to think he should discuss BPA policy or Pacific northwest power problems until after he confers with his "superior" in Washington. He plans to leave for the nation's capital Saturday.

Pearl referred all questions about power to Paul J. Raver, who is leaving as BPA head to become superintendent of Seattle's power plant.

Raver said there probably will be no new power for heavy industry or private utilities by 1959, although the agency will be able to supply public agencies.

The agency has plans for which private utilities have filed are started within the next five or six years, the power shortage will be eased, he said. He added that he thinks the government will have a lot of problems in getting the power it needs under the Eisenhower administration "partnership" program.

Compromise of Security Levy Boost Appears to Be Gaining

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—

Compromises on the social security tax dispute to be the little fellow's way to be on the way.

Opposition to postponement was to be accomplished by increasing personal income tax exemptions from the present $300 figure, perhaps with fringe benefits such as a tax allowance for the care of children of working mothers.

Congress adjourned last year to act on President Eisenhower's proposal to postpone the social security tax increase. The President did not renew the suggestion last week in his annual state-of-the-union message.

This could be accomplished by increasing personal income tax exemptions from the present $300 figure, perhaps with fringe benefits such as a tax allowance for the care of children of working mothers.

Kean, R. N. J., said he has heard that in order to help pay for more benefits the administration may ask that the wage subcommittee of the social security tax be raised from its present $3,000 about $4,200 a year.

Reed said he is "in complete accord" with the administration's decision against trying to block the social security tax increase.

Rep. John E. Hickey, D-N.Y., who would refuse again to act. Chairman Daniel A. Reed, R. N. Y., of the house ways and means committee said "absolutely no possibility of Congress failing to act" to resolve the social security hike of from one and one-half to two per cent and employees at one and one-half per cent each.

kane, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Marshall Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Jensen, Reno, Nev., were guests of Jack McCandless Friday.

The President's letter said: "Because of the wealth of information and experience which your commission has gained . . . I would like to ask you to work closely with the director of defense mobilization, Arthur S. Flemming."

Flemming's manpower commission recommended: over the week-end plan for universal military training be held in alternate posts; a study of plans for creation of reserve forces. Eisenhower said he was in general agreement with the Flemming recommendations.
